Malcolm Smith's autobiography, Back From The Brink, is an inspiring account of his journey from addiction and homelessness to recovery and success.

Malcolm grew up in a loving home, but he started experimenting with drugs and alcohol at a young age. By the time he was in his early 20s, he was addicted to heroin and cocaine. He lost his job, his home, and his family. He was living on the streets, begging for money to buy drugs.

One day, Malcolm hit rock bottom. He was arrested for possession of drugs and sentenced to jail. While in jail, he started to get his life together. He went to therapy, he got sober, and he started to rebuild his life.

After he was released from jail, Malcolm got a job and started going to college. He eventually earned a degree in social work and became a counselor. He now works with other people who are struggling with addiction and homelessness.
