Duncan Hamilton was one of the most successful and charismatic racing drivers of all time. In a career that spanned two decades, he won some of the most prestigious races in the world, including the 24 Hours of Le Mans and the Mille Miglia. He also played a leading role in the development of the Jaguar C-Type and D-Type, two of the most iconic racing cars of all time.

Hamilton was born in 1920 in Glasgow, Scotland. He joined the Royal Navy in 1938 and served during World War II. After the war, he began racing cars and quickly established himself as one of the most talented drivers in the country. In 1951, he joined the Jaguar team and played a key role in the development of the C-Type and D-Type. He won the 24 Hours of Le Mans in 1953 and 1956, and the Mille Miglia in 1953.

Hamilton retired from racing in 1958 and went on to have a successful career as a journalist and broadcaster. He died in 1994 at the age of 74.

Orange Vol is the definitive biography of Duncan Hamilton. It is a beautifully written and illustrated book that tells the story of Hamilton's remarkable life and career. Simon Taylor has done a masterful job of capturing the essence of Hamilton's character and his love of racing. This is a must-read for any fan of motor racing or biography.

Excerpt from Orange Vol

"Hamilton was a natural racer. He had a quick mind, a sharp eye, and a fearless spirit. He was also a gifted engineer and could often be found in the Jaguar workshops, helping to develop the team's cars.

"Hamilton's success was not just due to his natural talent. He was also a tireless worker and a dedicated professional. He spent countless hours practicing and studying his craft. He was also a master of self-promotion and knew how to get his name in the headlines.

"Hamilton's life was a rollercoaster of highs and lows. He enjoyed great success on the track, but he also experienced tragedy and heartbreak. He was a complex and fascinating character, and his story is one that will continue to be told for generations to come."
